Chicken Cacciatore in Pressure Cooker

Just made Chicken Cacciatore in my Instant Pot Pressure Cooker. The wife and I have been on Weight Watchers off and on for some time and this is a meal we both really love. This was an experiment with the pressure cooker but the results were really good.

I started with two skinless, boneless chicken breast cut into pieces, one large onion diced up, some garlic (about a tablespoon, minced), in the pressure cooker and lightly browned the chicken. To this I added one 28 oz can of diced tomatoes, bag of baby carrots (1 lb), 1/2 can tomato soup (I didn't have tomato paste), salt and pepper to taste and 1/2 can of water. Cooked on high pressure for 8 minutes.

I cooked spaghetti in a separate pot as this is all new to me and I am still learning.
